

Scheduling of Coursework

Adler's academic year is comprised of 4 terms – summer, fall, winter and spring. Each term is approximately three months in length. Each term is divided into 2 sessions of approximately 5 weeks. Most courses are valued at 3 credits, and are held in either session 1 or session 2; however, some courses – such as our writing courses and classes related to field experience – span both sessions 1 and 2. The chart below represents the general structure of each academic year. Specific detailed scheduling information can be found at www.alfredadler.edu.

Practical psychology, inspiring change